Implenia posts impressive second-half operating performance – Strong cash flow and record high order books | Dividend assured

Dietlikon, 2 February 2018 – After a demanding start to the first half, Implenia's results for the full year show that it has successfully mastered the challenges of 2017. Free cash flow is significantly higher than expected, underlining a good operating performance in the second half of the year. As announced, this will ensure a dividend comparable to the one paid out for the previous year. The order backlog remains at a record high level. Implenia will publish its detailed financial statements for 2017 on 1 March 2018.
